place of business. The village now sur-rounds the depo. The houses are nearly all new. There are four stores, four tobacco factories, one planing-mill and tobacco-box manufactory, and three houses of worship, with two more in prospect. The Presbyte rions have recently removed their building at the Old Lick, and erected a new and beautiful one here, admirable in all its appointments, in which Presbytery now holds its meetings. The Lutheran church has been in use for some time. The Methodists have nearly completed theirs. The Episcopalians p. opose to remove theirs from the Old Lick, and the Baptists speak of building here.

The trade with Franklin county is very considerable. The tobacco factories here use about 800,000 pounds of leaf tobacco in a year, and pay upwards of $150,000 per an-nem in revenue tax to the United States Treasury, one factory paying $60,000.
